THE LISMORE QUAD WINS LOCAL GOVERNMENT NSW AWARD

There is no doubt Lismore and its villages are home to a very creative community.

At the recent Local Government NSW Awards, The Quad's 2019 project Dungarimba Wandarahn received a 'highly commended' award in the Leo Kelly OAM 'Arts and Culture' category.

Anyone who attended this incredible exhibition would agree, while those who couldn't find the time will probably be kicking themselves.

Commissioned by The Quad, Dungarimba Wandarahn (Lismore place of learning) was a major new Australian work by internationally acclaimed digital artist Craig Walsh.

One and a half years in the making, the project was created in collaboration with Southern Cross University's Indigenous School Gnibi Wandarahn and Lindisfarne Anglican Grammar, high school and university students, researchers and arts practitioners, and was funded by the Australian Government's Heritage Near Me program.

Dungarimba Wandarahn was a powerful multi-sensory experience of Bundjalung Elder Aunty Irene Harrington's memories as a young Aboriginal girl straddling two worlds in the 1950s.

During the four-night event, the original Lismore High School was animated with large-scale projections and a soundscape depicting her experience of a white education system. A large dome was also constructed on the grass over a sand circle evoking traditional Bundjalung story, language and song with music composed by Brett Canning from Lindisfarne Anglican Grammar and didgeridoo from local musician Tom Avery.

Audiences were invited to experience the work however they chose – lying down under the stars and listening, walking around each of the spaces, or sitting on a picnic rug while the kids played in the sand circle covered with animated projections of Bundjalung art.

Special recognition should go to the gallery team led by Brett Adlington, Craig Walsh and project producer Marisa Snow.

ADDITIONAL PLOTS AT TUCKI CEMETERY

Council has expanded the number of burial plots available at the popular Tucki Cemetery.

Council's Commercial Services Manager Kevin Trustum said a newly constructed concrete beam for the placement of plaques or memorials, similar to the Lismore Lawn Cemetery, allows for lawn burials and cremated remains.

"Many people are now deciding that they want a rural location as their, or their family member's, final resting place, which is why we have increased the space available at Council's Tucki Cemetery," he said.

"Overlooking the hills and farms of the Wyrallah area, the Tucki Cemetery provides memorial options for loved ones in a rural setting.

"There are 48 new burial plots and 144 new spaces for cremated remains now available."

The burial plots can be double depth to allow for the burial of two people in the same plot, similar to other Council cemeteries.

The cremated remains plots can be single or double.

The memorial beam will be planted with small natives over time.

Both burial and cremated remains memorial plots can be reserved in advance.

The cost of a burial plot at the Tucki Cemetery is $3,755.40 and $2,641.70 for a second interment, with a single cremation plot $1,252.70 and $1,802.70 for a double plot (2020/21 prices).
